THE FIRST COMEE.

O Caledonia! stern and wild,
Land of brown heath and shaggy wood,
Land of the mountain and the flood,
Land of my sires! what mortal hand
Can e'er untle the fillal band
That knits me to thy rugged stand!

—Sir Walter Scott.

When the genealogy of the Comee-Comey Family in America was published in 1896, nothing had been clearly ascertained of the trans-Atlantic antecedents of the progenitor of the family, David Comy, who was living in Woburn, Mass., in 1663, but moved a year or two later to Concord, Mass. This deficiency is in a measure supplied by what follows.

In Drake's "Founders of New England," in a list of 272 passengers aboard the "John and Sarah" of London, John Greene, Master, bound for New England, dated Search Office, Gravesend, Nov. 8, 1651, is the name of David Mackhome. At first appearance the name of Mackhome does not seem to have the slightest resemblance to Comee or McComey, but the pronunciation will be found identical with the latter, and without doubt David Mackhome of the "John and Sarah" and David Comy of Woburn were the same. The scribe who made the original list wrote the (to him) unfamiliar names as they sounded, as is readily shown by a glance at the other names in the roll. did not entirely drop the Gaelic prefix to his name is shown by the fact that in the record of his second marriage twenty years afterward (to Hester or Esther Harvey, Sept. 6, 1671, in Charlestown, Mass.), his name is spelled Macomey. Among his fellow passengers were several It will be remembered that David's son married Martha The Munro clan was one of the earliest Highland clans. Munroe.

The ship's list further states that the "John and Sarah" contains "household stuffe and other provisions for Planters and Scotch prisoners free by ordinance of Parliament, dat. 20th of October, 1651." The captain was ordered by those employing him to deliver their "Orders and Servauts to Tho. Kemble, of Charlestowne, to be disposed of by him according to orders wee have sent him." The ship reached Charlestown in the early part of 1652.

A glance at the times will throw still more light upon the matter. It was in the days of the Commonwealth in Great Britain. Many of the Scotchmen however adhered to young Charles, afterwards King Charles II., and they rose in his behalf in 1650. On the 3rd September, Cromwell met them at Dunbar, on the east coast of Scotland, and defeated them. The following year, while Cromwell was still busy in Scotland, Charles and his army invaded England. They had advanced as far as Worcester, when Cromwell overtook them and put them to utter rout on the anniversary of the battle of Dunbar. David Mackhome seems to have been one of the many prisoners who were taken at that time, and pardoned by Parliament, with the understanding that they should be (It will thus be seen that the Indian encounter sent to distant shores. in which he met his death was not his first battle.) As prisoners of war, their condition, from which they had to gradually raise themselves, was one of partial servitude. This will account for David Mackhome's obscurity in the dozen years succeeding his arrival in New England.

In Scotland, mainly in the vale of Alford, Aberdeenshire, there are today at least fifty families bearing the name of M'Combie. the name is comparatively modern, added about a century ago, but Wm. M'Combie Smith's "Memoir of the Families of M'Combie and Thoms originally M'Intosh and M'Thomas," published in Edinburgh in 1890*

(224 pages) will tell the story better.

The M'Comies, says Mr. Smith, are a branch or sept of the Clan The name was formerly MacThomas, i. e., son of Thomas (McIntosh) the name having been originally assumed by one of the younger sons of some early chief of the clan. † Gradually it became corrupted into M'Thomie, M'Homie and M'Comie. In 1595 Robert M'Homie acknowledges Lachlan Mor, 16th chief of the M'Intoshes, as his "naturall cheiff." There is no record of the particular Thomas M'Intosh from whom the surname originated, but in the original feucharter (their feudal superior was the Earl of Athole) under date of 7th Sept., 1568, the M'Comies are described as being ab antiquo tenants and possessors of the estate of Finnegand, in Glenshee, t in the northeast extremity of Perthshire.

The very name of Perthshire calls to mind a varied train of pictures that history and literature have given us, the coronation stone of Scone, "The Flow'r o' Dumblane," "The Fair Maid of Perth," the fairer

Loch Katrine,

"And mountains, that like giants stand To sentinel enchanted land."

Finnegand lies wholly on the right bank of the river Shee in the parish of Kirkmichael, and at its lowest point is a thousand feet above the sea level. For two miles along the Shee there is a belt of moderately fertile land, consisting of level haughs and gently sloping fields, then a series of low rounded heights leading to the foot of the mountains which rise rather abruptly about half a mile from the river.

The charter of 1568 was granted in favor of John M'Comy Moir. His wife Janet Rattray and son John M'Comy Moir, junior, are men-Moir or Mor means big, and most of the family in Scotland have been large and powerful physically. John, junior, married Janet Farquharson, by whom he had a son Alexander, whose son John M'Comie Mor, the M'Comie Mor, married Elizabeth Campbell and had at least seven sons. David Mackhome's first son was named John, probably after the M'Comy Mor, who may possibly have been his (David's) father. Of this John, the greatest of the family, many wonderful feats of swordsmanship, etc., are told. At the beginning of

* A copy has been recently added to the Public Library of the City of Boston.

[†] This was a common method of procedure in Scotland. There are only about 60 Highland clans but 400 or 500 septs whose names have come in some similar way. See Frank Adam's "What is my Tartan?" The long, lonely pass of Glenshec," Henry Van Dyke calls it.

the Civil War in England he sided with the King's party, but later on changed sides. This led to the downfall of the family. Meanwhile, about the time David M'Comy arrived in America (1652), the great John disposed of his estates in Glenshee and took up the estate of Crandart, in Forter, in the neighboring Glenisla, Forfarshire, in the midst of some of the finest mountain scenery in Scotland. Soon after the Restoration his troubles began. May 3, 1661, the Scottish Parliament passed an "Act and Decree in favor of James, Earl of Airlie, against Johne M'Intosh, alias M'Comie, of Forthar." The names M'Comie and M'Intosh seem to have been used interchangably by the M'Comies until the family was scattered about 1676. Sir Aeneas M'Pherson in his MS. history of the M'Phersons, written about this time (17th century), makes mention of "John M'Intosh of Forter, commonly called M'Comie," as among "the oldest and wisest not only of my own, but all our neighbour families." But the part of the family in the Civil War and a quarrel of long standing with the Farquharsons resulted in 1673 in the breaking up of the family. Of the seven sons of the M'Comie Mor, John and Robert had been killed by the Farquharsons, James died soon after, Thomas and Alexander were outlawed, so that the future of the family was left dependent upon Angus and Donald. Angus settled in Fifeshire, and wrote his name M'Thomas, which in time became Thomas and finally Thoms, which name his descendants still bear. Donald went north into the vale of Alford in Aberdeenshire, and became the ancestor of Robert M'Comic, junior, who was at the defeat of Culloden in 1745, after which he went to the West Indies. of Thomas M'Combie, a prominent man in Melbourne, Australia, of Wm. M'Combie, a great cattle breeder in Scotland, M. P. 1868 to 1876, and several other substantial Aberdeenshire men.

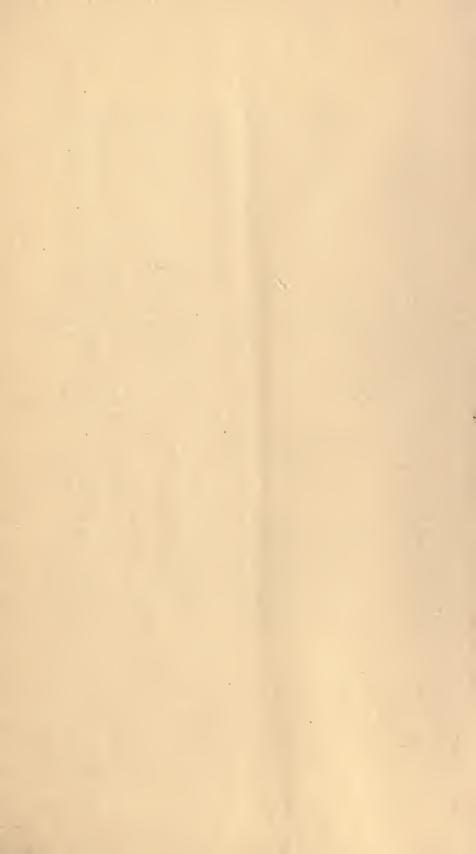

To go back still farther, the founder of the Clan M'Intosh was Shaw MacDuff, second son of the fifth Earl of Fife, who distinguished himself in quelling a rebellion among the Moray tribes against King Malcolm IV. about 1161-63, and whose descendants thenceforward assumed the name of M'Intosh—Mac-an-Toiseach—son of the foremost man. The system of Highland clans did not begin until about this time. Previous to this Highlanders were divided into a few great tribes, which exactly corresponded with the ancient earldoms or mormaerships.

Gillemichel MacDuff, first Earl of Fife, who died A. D. 1139, was the first to take the name of MacDuff. Surnames before his day were not hereditary. The family claim to be descended from the traditional MacDuff, Thane of Fife (though there never were such thanes), by whom Maebeth was overthrown in 1057.

COMEE-COMEY FAMILY.

1. David Comee, who was in Woburn, Mass., in 1663, seems to be the first of the name in America. When or whence he came is not known with certainty, but the family tradition is that he was a Scotchman. His son John married the daughter of a Scotchman and this same John, in 1728, conveys a certain right in Concord "which belongs to the Tenement where my Hond father David Comey formerly dwelt in the Southerly part of Concord known by the name of Scotland." So it seems there was a part of Concord known as Scotland, perhaps because a Scotch colony had settled there. The name is generally spelled Comee until the nineteenth century, when there was a division, about half adopting the form of Comey. On the old records it is occasionally spelled, or misspelled Comy, Come, Comi, Comay and Coomy. The name seems not to be related to those of Coney (Cony), Comer. Comby (Combee) or Comley, that are occasionally met with in New England. Comrie and Comyn are old Scotch names.

About 1664 David Comee moved from Woburn to Concord (Mass.), where he lived until his death. He was killed, April 21, 1676, by King Philip's Indians in the adjoining town of Sudbury, in one of the bloodiest of Indian encounters. The following petition was presented by his widow:

"To the honored Court assembled at Cambridge ye 3 day of October 1676 The humble petition of Esther Comy of Concord humbly showeth yt wheras ye said esther comy her husband Dauid Comy was slaine by ye jndians at Sudbury and lefte me a poor widow with sixe small children and foure of them bee by a former wife and non of them being com to Age or able to choose their own Gardens: I ye said Esther doe humbly entreat this honored Court to appoynt Gardens for them & to put ym out to som good places: wherby ye boy may learne som trad yt may bee for his futter beinfeet and dispose of ye Girls as may bee for their weelle fare also for ye settlment of yt smal estate yt my husband died seized of which doth amount to about eighty pounds which appears by An jnventory given in at court at Charlestown: and I doe humbly desir yt Captaine Timothy Wheeler with on or tow mor may bee appointed for both ye ends aforesaid: whom ye honored court shall see causse to appoynt: hoping yt ye honoured court will Consider me beeing poor and haueing serl children very small on of ym not being Above sixe weeks old when my husband was slaine: so praying for your prosperity: your humble petitioner this 30:7::76

The inventory accompanying the above is short and amounts to £87 -14-0, of which £50 is for the house and land.

Children of David and his wife Elizabeth, ii. recorded in Woburn, iii. to

v. recorded in Concord:

i. ELIZABETH, m. March 29, 1681, John Kendall (1646-1732) of Woburn, where she d. in December, 1701.

ii. Mary, b. Jan. 30, 1663; m. May 24, 1688, Joshua Kibby, of Sherborn, and d. July 9, 1712, ac. 49. He d. in 1731.

2. iii. John, b. Oct. 18, 1665.

iv. DAVID, b. Nov. 14, 1666; d. before 1676.

v. SARAH, b. Sept. 18, 1668.

David's wife Elizabeth died in Concord, March 4, 1671, and he married, second, Esther —, who married, Nov. 7, 1682, Samuel Parry for her second husband.

Children of David and Esther born in Concord:

i. Daughter, name unknown. il. Esther, b. Feb. 14, 1676.

John² Comee (David¹) was a farmer and moved from Concord to Cambridge Farms (Lexington) between 1689 and 1693. He died in Lexington, Dec. 6, 1729, ac. 64. Hudson is in error when he gives the date as 1723. He married June 21, 1688, Martha, born Nov. 2, 1667, eldest daughter of William Munroe, who came from Scotland in 1652.

> Children of John and Martha, i. recorded in Concord, iv. and v. in Cambridge. (The first four were baptised Feb. 26, 1699):

i. John, b. April 8, 1689; probably d. young.

ii. HANNAH, d. unm. May 26, 1770.

iii. Martha, m. July 9, 1713, Benjamin Smith, and d. Nov. 19, 1749.

3. iv. DAVID, b. Jan. 11, 1696. v. ELIZABETH, b. Jan. 29, 1701. vi. ABIGAIL, bap. Oct. 26, 1707; m. Jan. 4, 1728, Jonas Pierce, and d. in Westminster, Mass.

DAVID³ COMEE (John, 2 David¹) of Lexington, lived to be 104 years old, if family tradition is correct. This would bring the date of his death about the year 1800. In 1729 he is called a yeoman, in 1736 an innholder. He married first, Ruhama, born in Watertown July 15, 1701, daughter of Joseph and Ruhama Brown. She died June 3, 1730, and he married second, Sarah -----

David and Ruhama seem to have had five or six children, who died in infancy. Those that lived (born in Lexington) were:

4. i. John, bap. Sept. 28, 1725. 5. ii. Joseph, bap. Aug. 4, 1728.

Children of David and Sarah, all born in Lexington:

6. i. BENJAMIN, b. Nov. 15, 1733.

ii. SARAH, b. Sept. 11, 1735; m. Dec. 4, 1755, Isaac Parkhurst (1731-—) of Waltham, where they lived till 1786.

iii. Martha, b. April 11, 1737; m. at Chelsea, April 2, 1761, William Williams.

7. iv. EZEKIEL, b. April 27, 1740.

v. Ruhama, b. April 15, 1742; m. Dec. 9, 1762, Isaac Corey (1740-1817) of Waltham, and d. at East Sudbury, March 2, 1819.

8. vi. DAVID, b. April 21, 1744.

9. vii. Jonathan, b. April 4, 1746.

JOHN COMEE (David, John, David) a farmer, moved from Lexington to Milton in 1751, but soon after (1753 to 1755) removed to Stoughton, the part known as Stoughtonham (incorporated 1762 as Sharon). He seems to have been in the part of the latter, which in 1778 became Foxboro. His name is included in the unsuccessful petition of May 1773 for the incorporation of Foxboro. At the first town meeting June 29, 1778, he (or possibly it was his son John) was chosen constable. He died in Foxboro, Feb. 8, 1815, ac. 89. He was married at Milton in 1751 to Abigail, born Oct. 22, 1727, daughter of Roger Sumner and a descendant of William Sumner (1605-1688) of Dorchester, the ancestor of Charles Sumner. Mrs. Abigail Comee died at Foxboro, May 19, 1806, ac. 78.

Children of John and Abigail, i. recorded in Milton, ii. to v.

in Stoughton, vi. in Sharon:

10. i. John, b. Jan. 14, 1753.
ii. Jerusha, b. Feb. 22, 1755.
11. iii. Oliver, b. June 11, 1757.

12. iv. SPENCER, b. Jan. 24, 1760. v. ABIGAIL, b. Aug. 25, 1762; d. unm. Jan. 11, 1790.

vi. EUNICE, b. July 15, 1766.

JOSEPH COMEE (David, John, David) moved previous to 1771 from Lexington to Wrentham, the part taken in 1778 to make Foxboro, where he was a cordwainer (shoemaker) and still living in 1809. He was one of the signers of the unsuccessful petition of 1773 for the incorporation of Foxboro. October 1771, Joseph Comee and wife Mary, of Wrentham, gave quitclaim to estate of their honorable father Benjamin Merriam, of Lexington. Hudson, however, in his History of Lexington makes it out that he was a member of Capt. John Parker's Company, April 19, 1775, and was wounded in the arm trying to get out of the meeting-house, whither he had been to replenish his powder-horn, but this was probably his son Joseph. He married, about 1750, Mary, born April 4, 1733, eldest daughter of Benjamin Merriam (1699-1773), of Lexington. Hannah, widow of Joseph Comee deceased, died in Foxboro, March 22, 1815. The death of a child of Joseph Comee is recorded in Lexington churchrecords in 1766.

Children of Joseph and Mary, all born in Lexington:

13. i. EZRA, (twin) bap. Oct. 27, 1751.

ii. Mercy, (twin) bap. Oct. 27, 1751. iii. Joseph, b. July 1, 1753; probably the Joseph who d. in Lexington, Oct. 12, 1776.

iv. MARY, b. June 22, 1755.

v. Aaron, b. Aug. 15, 1757; nothing further known. vi. Betty, b. March 23, 1760.

vii. Ruhama, bap. Nov. 14, 1762. 14. viii. Benjamin, b. July 3, 1765; m. Ruth Trow.

Benjamin' Comee (David, John, David) was a cordwainer and at the time of his marriage (1762) was still living in Lexington, but moved soon after to Malden, where he died in 1774, ac. 40. He married first, March 25, 1762, Hannah Watts, of Chelsea, who died at Malden, Dec. 1, 1767. She was probably the Hannah Watts b. Chelsea, Feb. 17, 1743, dau. of Samuel and Hannah.

He married second, Oct. 17, 1768, Hannah Richardson, of Woburn, by whom however he had no children. She was probably the Hannah Coome, who married in 1783 Thomas Sargent, of Malden.

Children of Benjamin and Hannah, ii. and iii. recorded in Malden:

- i. HANNAH, d. in Boston, unm., in 1794.
- ii. SARAH, b. March 23, 1766.
- 15. iii. BENJAMIN, b. Nov. 21, 1767.
- 7. EZEKIEL⁴ COMEE (David, John, David) lived in Cambridge (Brighton) till 1783, when he probably went to Boston, where he appears in the directories of 1796 and 1800, but not in 1803, so he probably died before that. (No directories published between these dates). Feb. 12, 1806, Mary Ann Comee, singlewoman, and Charlotte Smith, wife of Ebenezer Smith, all of Boston, sell property in Cambridge, that descended to them from their father Ezekiel.

Children of Ezekiel and his wife:

- i. Mary Ann. Perhaps the Mary who d. in Boston, Aug. 12, 1824.
 ii. Charlotte, b. about 1775; m. Ebenezer Smith, a painter and glazier in Boston, where he d. July 29, 1810, ac. 36. She d. in Boston, in June, 1809, ac. 34.
- DAVID COMEE (David, John, David) was a farmer, but one of "the embattled farmers" that "fired the shot heard round the world." Though not a member of any militia company, as a citizen of Lexington he saw active service April 19, 1775, when his queue was shot off. At the battle of Bunker Hill a bullet from the enemy was shot into the barrel of his musket. He was out two days from March 4 to March 6, 1776, at Roxbury, in Capt. Stephen Dana's Company, while the forts were being erected on Dorchester Heights (Rev. Rolls, xviii. 239). Soon after he moved from Lexington to Westminster, the part that was incorporated in 1785 as Gardner (Mass.). His deed from Amos Gates was dated April 19, 1776. From Dec. 12, 1776 to March 1, 1777, he was out in Capt. Manasseh Sawyer's Company in Colonel Dike's Regiment (Rev. Rolls, xxvi. 419). Aug. 22, 1777, at the Bennington alarm, he marched to East Hoosick in Capt. Elisha Jackson's Company with Major Bridge (Rev. Rolls, xx. 108). From Sept. 7 to Nov. 29, 1777, he was in Capt. Nathaniel Carter's Company in Col. Job Cushing's Regiment (Rev. Rolls, xviii. His house in Gardner, where he died March 8, 1826, aged nearly 82, was about one and one-half miles east of the Centre on the road to Ashburnham and before his day had been an inn. David married first, Christiana, daughter of James Maltman, who came from Scotland to Boston about the middle of the eighteenth century. She died in Gardner, May 17, 1789, ac. 33 years and 8 months, and he married second, her younger sister Hannah Maltman, who lived to be 88 years, 2 months and 18 days, dying in Gardner, Oct. 23, 1852. She was blind the last twenty years of her life.

Children of David and Christiana, i. born in Lexington, the others in Westminster (Gardner):

16. i. DAVID, b. Sunday, March 26, 1775.
17. ii. JAMES MALTMAN, b. Friday, April 18, 1777.
iii. BENJAMIN, b. May 28, 1779; d. Jan. 26, 1785.

lv. Christiana, b. Oct. 30, 1781; m. March 29, 1804, Eliel Bacon, of Gardner, and about 1805 moved to Henderson, N. Y.

v. Mary, b. Sept. 4, 1784; m. June 29, 1806, William Fletcher 2d, of Templeton, and d. Oct. 7, 1818, ac. 34. vi. Benjamin, b. Dec. 13, 1786; d. April 4, 1790. vii. John, b. Jan. 24, 1789; d. May 25, 1803.

Children of David and Hannah, all born in Gardner:

i. HANNAH MORE, b. April 6, 1790; d. March 10, 1810.

11. SARAH, b. Feb. 12, 1793; m. Aug. 11, 1814, Elijah Breck (1792–1866), of Gardner, where she d. June 29, 1877, ac. 84, leaving several children, among them Sarah Breck, who m. A. Allen Bent; and has one son Allen H. Bent.

iii. PATTY, b. Oct. 2, 1795; d. May 19, 1803.

iv. Ruhama, b. Feb. 20, 1798; m. June 28, 1835, Abram Jaquith (1802-1851), of Fitchburg, where she died Dec. 19, 1884, ac. 86, leaving one daughter, Abby Mead Jaquith, who m. David Damon.

18. v. Benjamin, b. Sept. 16, 1800.

19. vi. Joseph, b. Jan. 14, 1803. vii. MARTHA, b. June 20, 1805; m. Sept. 29, 1828, Ebenezer Fenno (1801-1846), of Gardner; and d. at Baldwinsville, Mass.. Aug. 4, 1880, ae. 75, leaving three daughters. Mr. Fenno was a son of Ephraim Fenno (1759-1820) of Westminster, Mass., and a descendant of John Fenno, who was in Milton, Mass., at its incorporation in 1662. 20. viii. George Washington, b. Aug. 22, 1809.

JONATHAN⁴ COMEY (David, John, David) when a lad, followed his older brothers to what later became Foxboro, and while still young removed to Holliston, where he lived with a Mr. Samuel Messenger. After his marriage he went to the western part of Hopkinton to live on the west side of Whitehall Pond. At the time of the Lexington alarm he was out eleven days in Capt. John Homes' Company in Col. Samuel Bullard's Regiment. His name is spelled Jnº Commey on the muster roll. He married Elizabeth Wells.

Children of Jonathan and Elizabeth, all born in Hopkinton:

i. PARMELIA, m. Nathaniel Chamberlain, of Hopkinton, and moved to Wardsboro, Vt. 21. il. ROYAL, b. Jan. 29, 1772.

iii. Betsey, m. Joshua Mellen, and lived in Westboro; where they had one son, the late Judge Edw. Mellen, of Worcester, and four daughters.

iv. Polly, m. Jonathan Fairbanks, and lived in Holden, Mass.

v. Nellipee, m. John Wheelock, of Hopkinton; where she died at the birth of her son John, who was brought up by a Mr. Adams.

vl. HANNAH, m. Abner Prentiss, of Hopkinton.

JOHN⁵ COMEY (John, David, John, David) was a farmer and 10. lived in Foxboro, where he died May 24, 1830, ac. 77. At the Lexington alarm he marched as corporal in Capt. Israel Smith's Company and was out four days (Rev. Rolls, xiii. 103). From May to December, 1775, during the siege of Boston, he was in Capt. Samuel Payson's Company in Col. Joseph Read's Regiment. was also out five and one-half days in Capt. Josiah Pratt's Company in Colonel Gill's Regiment "that marched on ye alarme to Roxbury the 5 day of March A.D. 1776" (Rev. Rolls, xxi. 188). He married Betsey Carpenter, daughter of Nehemiah. died in Foxboro in February, 1823.

Children of John and Betsey, all born in Foxboro:

i. CLARISSA, b. May 29, 1783; d. unm. Dec. 29, 1855, ac. 72.

ii. Betsey, b. Aug. 26, 1784; d. unm. Nov. 13, 1869, ae. 85.
22. iii. Spencer, b. April 2, 1786; d. Foxboro, Dec. 14, 1859, ae. 73.
23. iv. Thatcher, b. March 22, 1788; d. Foxboro, Dec. 23, 1867, ae. 79.
v. Nabby, b. Aug. 9, 1790; d. July 13, 1796. vi. Eunice, b. June 6, 1792; d. unm. Oct. 3, 1858, ae. 66.

vii. Esther, b. March 6, 1794; d. unm. May 25, 1831, ac. 37. viii. NABBY, b. March 1, 1797; m. 1845, Amos Keith, of Norton; where she d. May 1, 1884. 24. ix. John, b. April 1, 1798; d. Foxboro, April 7, 1886, ac. 88.

OLIVER COMEY (John, David, John, David) was a farmer and lived in Foxboro, where he died Jan. 4, 1842, ac. 84. He enlisted July 14, 1778, and served until Feb. 18, 1779, in Capt. John Ellis's Company in Col. Thomas Poor's Regiment, raised to fortify and secure the passes of the North River in New York (Rev. Rolls, xix. 3). In later years was called Captain Comey. He married, Dec. 21, 1786, Elizabeth, daughter of Eleazar Belcher. She died in Foxboro, May 12, 1851, aged 83 years, 3 months and 26 days.

Children of Oliver and Elizabeth, all born in Foxboro:

When a young man he was with Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston's expedition to Utah in 1857 and 1858 to restore order among the Mormons who were in open revolt against the national government. Later he was with a surveying party in the wilder part of the West. June 18, 1861, he enlisted at Omaha in Co. E, 1st Neb. Vols., and was in active service until Aug. 18, 1862, when he was honorably discharged, the cause being ill health. He soon came East and on Jan. 1, 1864, enlisted in the 15th Mass. Battery, in which he remained until the close of the War. His battery was sent immediately to Louisiana. The following Fall they went up the Mississippi, first to Arkansas and then to Memphis, Tenn., but on Jan. 1, 1865, they were back in Louisiana. The following month they were sent to Alabama, and almost immediately to Florida, but were soon back in Alabama. A wound caused by the bursting of a shell at the siege of Blakely, Ala., in April, 1865, eventually caused his death.

He married, in 1863, his cousin Celinda, daughter of Hiram Comey,

80. WILLIAM M. COMEY (Albert, Royal, Jonathan, David, John, David1) was born in Wrentham, Mass., Feb. 18, 1840, and lives (1896) in the village of City Mills in the town of Norfolk (Mass.), where he has resided since 1865. He enlisted at Chicago, Jan. 24, 1861, in Battery B, 4th U. S. Artillery, and was ordered at once to Newport, Ky. January 27, he was detailed as mounted orderly to report to Major McRae at St. Louis. January 31, he left St. Louis for Galveston and San Antonio, Texas. Thence he started for Fort Arbuckle, but learned before reaching there that General Twiggs had surrendered all the troops and supplies in the states. Major McRae was a Union man and decided to march to Little Rock, Ark., which he reached after a hard march. That night the garrison was surrendered, but they were allowed to proceed toward St. Louis without arms. At St. Louis, Comey was detailed as orderly to General Lyon. April 11, he was taken violently ill. At the end of May he re-joined General Lyon, and June 18 was at the battle of Boonesville, Mo., his first engagement. Immediately he was sent to Fort Kearney, Neb., and Fort Leavenworth, Kan., but by the first of August was back in Missouri, and on August 10 was in the battle of Wilson Creek, where General Lyon was killed. Comey was near General Lyon at the time and was wounded in the knee himself, was placed in his saddle and rode 125 miles without dismounting. October 15 he returned and was attached to Fremont's Body Guard, which was disbanded on Thanksgiving Day, and Comey was attached to Co. C, 2d U. S. Infantry. December 20, he was ordered to Washington, D. C., where he was detailed on special detective service until March 8, 1862. March 9, his regiment took possession of the abandoned forts across the Potomac, and soon after sailed down the river. At Hampton Roads the steamer foundered. Then came the siege of Yorktown, and the battles of Williamsburg May 3, Ellison Mills May 23, Hanover Court House May 27, Seven Pines May 31, Fair Oaks June 1, and several other important engagements, including Malvern Hill July 1, Cedar Mountain August 8, and the 2d Bull Run August 30. At the latter Comey received five wounds in the left hand and arm and was in the hospital at Philadelphia until November 15, when he returned to his regiment in Virginia. Dec. 12-13, 1862, he was in the battle of Fredericksburg, the following May at Chancellorsville, and in July at the battle of Gettysburg. His regiment pursued Lee until ordered to New York to suppress the draft riots, remaining until September. On the night of November 27-28, Comey and several other pickets were captured, but with seven others he made his escape and rejoined his regiment, and remained with it until Jan. 24, 1864, when he received his discharge. He is a member of Antietam Command U. V. U. at Boston and of Post 60, G. A. R. at Franklin. Of the latter post he is historian. In 1892 he was on the staff of Commander-in-chief Palmer at the G. A. R. parade in Washington, D. C. Since 1868 he has been engaged in the manufacture of bonnet wire, picture cord, etc., and has taken a prominent part in town affairs, has been auditor, moderator, etc., and is a notary public also. Henry Newton' Comey (Elbridge G., Royal, Jonathan, David, John, David) was born in Hopkinton, Mass., March 4, 1840, and lives (1896) in Swampscott, Mass., his business being in the adjoining city of Lynn, where he has been connnected with the Smith & Dove Manufacturing Co. (linen threads—manufactory in Andover), for about eight years. May 25, 1861, he enlisted as private in Co. G, 2d Reg. Mass. Infantry. Nov. 1, 1862, he became second lieutenant; June 6, 1863, first lieutenant; and May 24, 1864, captain, in which position he was active until the close of the war. For a year or more he was at Harper's Ferry and Winchester, Va. the battle of Cedar Mountain, Va., Aug. 9, 1862, he acted as captain part of the time. He was now at the front constantly and was at the 2d Bull Run, Chantilly, South Mountain, Antietam and Chancellorsville. At the latter, he was for the time being in command of several companies and was wounded by a split bullet. At the battle of Beverly Ford, Va., he commanded a company of marksmen. His regiment arrived at Gettysburg on the evening of July 1 and was ordered to the extreme right, where they remained until the afternoon of the 2d. That night and the next morning they tried to regain their position and lost nearly half of their men. Lieutenant Comey was twice wounded. He re-joined his regiment in New York during the draft riots and soon after went to Virginia, then to Tennessee and finally to Alabama, where he passed the winter fighting guerillas and guarding the railroads. At Tullahoma, Tenn., he fractured his leg. Leaving the hospital at Nashville, Tenn., in the spring of 1864, he joined his regiment on its advance from Chattanooga to Atlanta, Ga. He took part in many of the battles until the capture, Sept. 2, 1864, of Atlanta, where as officer of the day on provost duty he took the Confederate flag from the court house. On Sherman's famous March to the Sea his regiment (the 2d Massachusetts) was the first to leave Atlanta, and continued with Sherman from Savannah to Columbia, S. C., and Goldsborough and Raleigh, During this time Captain Comey did valiant work in repuls-N. C. ing attacks. In March, 1865, he was present at the grand review in Washington, and was on duty at the trial of the conspirators. His campaigns extended through all of the southern states east of the Mississippi, except Mississippi and Florida. Since the war has lived in Woodville and Woburn, Mass., in Vermont, in Chicago, Ill. (about seven years), but about 1887 located in Lynn, Mass.

83. Manlius' Comey (Elbridge G., Royal, Jonathan, David, John, David') was born in Hopkinton, Mass., March 19, 1843, and died Dec. 20, 1864, ac. 21. July 27, 1862, he enlisted in Co. F, 14th Mass. Infantry, was afterwards transferred to the 1st Battalion Mass. Heavy Artillery. He was in the forts around Washington, with Grant in his advance on Richmond in the spring of 1864, at the battles of Spottsylvania, North Anna, Tolopotomy, Cold Harbor and Petersburgh. At the latter, June 24, 1864, he was captured and hurried off to Belle Isle prison at Richmond. Thence he was transferred to Andersonville, Ga., and on to Millen, Ga. Sherman's advance, with Comey's brother among the officers, obliged the Confederates to vacate Millen, and the prisoners went to Savannah and thence to Florence, S. C. From the latter he was paroled, but although of a naturally robust constitution the confinement and hardships had proved too much for him and he died on board the steamer New York, while on the way from Hilton Head to Fortress Monroe. His body was brought to Massachusetts and he was buried in his native town.

84. PERLEY PIERCE COMEY (Elbridge G., Royal, Jonathan, David, David, John, David1) was born in Holliston, Mass., Jan. 14, 1852, and lives (1896) in Clinton, Mass. vi. ARTHUR EDWARD, b. Aug. 21, 1883.

James D. D. Comey (Charles M., George A., Lyman, Oliver, John, 4 95. David, John, David was born in New Bedford, Mass., March 7, 1869, and is living (1896) in Fall River, Mass., where he has been located since the Fall of 1891, teaching music. He is organist of the First Baptist Church, and conductor of the Fall River Choral Society. Studied the organ with H. C. McDougall, of Providence, R. I., and George E. Whiting, of Boston; piano with Arthur Foote, and composition with George W. Chadwick, of Boston. He married, Oct. 12, 1892, Angeline S. Capen, daughter of Andrew Jackson Capen, of New Bedford.

Children, born in Fall River:

i. Margaret, 10 b. Aug. 5, 1894. ii. Helen, b. Jan. 3, 1896.

MALTMAN FAMILY.

James Maltman came from Edinburgh, Scotland, to Boston, Mass., about the middle of the eighteenth century. The tradition is that he left his native country to escape being drafted into the army. It is possible that the War of the Austrian Succession (1740-48), known in America as King George's War, was the cause of his coming to the New World, but of this there is nothing certain, and it should be understood that what is known of this James Maltman is from family tradition entirely. England was dragged into this war by her King, George II., a native of Germany, much against the wish of the people, in the year 1743, and the army was recruited with difficulty, so it will be seen that there is at least plausibility in assigning this as the cause of Maltman's leaving Scotland. The story goes that he was twenty-one when he left his old home and that after coming to Boston he met a young lady, Christiana Castor, who had come from Glasgow, and that he afterwards married her. After her death he married again. He was a cabinet maker by trade, and a member of the Masonic fraternity. At one time he lived in Providence, R. I., but died, it is supposed, in Gardner, Mass., at the home of one of his daughters, though there is not the slightest clew to the date of his death.

Children of James and Christiana:

i. Christiana, b. in September, 1755; m. about 1774, David Comee, of Lexington (see p. 6), and died in Gardner, Mass., May 17, 1789, ac. 33 years and 8 months. Their second son was named James Maltman Comee.

 MARY, m. Joseph Clark (1757-1837), who went from Sherborn, Mass., to Gardner, among the early settlers of the latter. They had one son, Joseph, b. March 3, 1787.

iii. Hannah, b. Aug. 5, 1764; m. about 1789, after the death of her sister, David Comee (see p. 6), and died in Gardner, Mass., Oct. 23, 1852, ac. 88-2-18. She was blind during the last twenty years of her life.

The name Maltman seems to be purely Scotch. In the year 1527 there was living in Aberdeen, an Alexander Maltman, flesher (butcher).

Hercules Maltman, of Edinburgh, writes (1894) that there are only four Maltmans in that city, but thinks there are more on the east coast, at Dunbar and Eyemouth. He himself went from Glasgow to Edinburgh about 1881. There is a Robert Maltman, in Ringford, Kirkcudbrightshire.

The supplement to Allibone's Dictionary of Authors has a James Maltman, minister of the gospel, and author of "Holiday Papers" on teetotalism, an 8vo volume published in Edinburgh in 1888. The Saturday Review (lxv. 300) says: "Mr. Maltman * * * falls upon teetotalers and smites them, taunts them, ridicules them, curses them."

In Gray Friars Churchyard, Edinburgh, are the graves of James Maltman 1778, Ann Maltman 1791, and Ann Maltman (ac. 62) 1825, widow of Alex. Ross Porter.

A recent Glasgow directory has three Maltmans, and in London (England) there is one, George Maltman, export clothier, a native of Scotland.

Among the passengers from England to Virginia in the ship "Thomas," Henry Taverner master, in 1635 (probably) was a Thomas Maltman ac. 17.

John Maltman (1800-1853?) came from Edinburgh to Canada and thence to New York City. He was a son of William Maltman, of Glasgow. John's son, Thomas B. of New York, writes that the only other Maltman he has known, John Maltman, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., came from Perth, Scotland. William Maltman, stone cutter, appears in the New York City directory of 1827, and ten years latter there is a James Maltman, store-keeper.

There was a John S. Maltman, 1st Lieut. of the 17th Reg. Mich. Vols., April 13, 1865. The regiment was organized at Detroit, in August, 1862. William H. Maltman is in the 1893 directory of Melbourne, Australia.

A search of the 1893 directories of the ten largest cities in the United States reveals only seven Maltmans: one in New York City, two in Chicago, three in Philadelphia, and one in Boston.

NOTES ON KING PHILIP'S WAR.

As the originator of the Comey-Comee family in America was killed in King Philip's War, a few notes upon that subject may not be out of place here. The general notes are mainly from "The Beginnings of New England," by John Fiske, and the local additions from the History of Sudbury, Mass., by Rev. A. S. Hudson.

Since the destruction in 1637 of the Pequots, perhaps the most powerful of the early Indian tribes in New England, there had been no serious outbreak. Meanwhile John Eliot of Roxbury, who after fourteen years of hard study had translated the Bible into the Algonquin dialect, had succeeded in gathering into his villages some 1500 "praying Indians," mostly of the Massachusetts tribe that took its name from Massawachusett, or Great Blue Hill, in Milton. There were as many more in Martha's Vineyard, 300 in Nantucket and about 700 in Plymouth Colony. These latter were mostly from the Wampanoags, and they, with the Massachusetts, were among the weaker tribes. The stronger tribes, the Narragansetts, around the bay of that name, the Mohegaus in Western Massachusetts and the Nipmucks among the hills of what is now Worcester County, furnished few converts. They thought that the English were trying to absorb the weaker tribes and thus strengthen their fighting capacity.

In 1660 Massasoit, chief sachem of the Wampanoags, died, leaving two sons, Wamsutta and Metacom, or Alexander and Philip as the English nick-named them. Soon after Wamsutta had succeeded his father he was called to Plymouth to account for some of his actions. He seems to have explained them satisfactorily, but before leaving he either caught cold or imbibed too much "fire-water" and died of a violent fever on the way home. Philip suspected the English of having poisoned his brother, for to the savage normal death must come by the tomahawk or firebrand, abnormal death from poison or witchcraft. Philip's dark plotting presumably began about this time. Twice he was summoned before the federal council, but both times protested his innocence.

It was not until June, 1675, that Philip, issuing from his lair on the west side of Mount Hope Bay, R. I., laid waste the towns of Swanzey and Dartmouth and the war really began. Middleboro and Taunton were destroyed soon after. In July the Nipmucks attacked Mendon. The Mohegans remained faithful to the English. On the night of August 2, Philip, whose home had become too hot for him, took part in a fierce assault upon Brookfield. The scene then shifted to the Connecticut Valley and simultaneous attacks were made September 1 upon Deerfield and Hadley. Meanwhile the more powerful Narragansetts, under their chief Canonchet, evidently remembering that the latter's father Miantonomo had been put to death by order of the English in 1643, had taken the warpath. On the morning of Sunday, December 19, Gov. Josiah Winslow, of Plymouth, and his men captured the Narragansett fort in what is now South Kingston, R. I., and a thousand of the Indians (full half their number) were killed.

Feb. 10, 1676, Philip, who had disappeared since the Brookfield fight of the previous August, led a furious attack upon Lancaster. Medfield was attacked the same month, and then Worcester and Marlborough. burning of the latter on Sunday morning, March 26, left Sudbury unprotected on the west, and for the next month the settlers kept a sharp lookout for signs of the savages. At daybreak on the 21st of April* the Indians came, mostly Nipmucks, variously estimated from 500 to 1500. During the preceding night they had disposed themselves in small squads so as to burn the houses and attack all of the six garrisons at once. Toward one of these, the Haynes garrison, "twelve resolute young men from Concord" were rapidly approaching to give their assistance, for the fighting was particularly hot here. As they drew near they were decoyed down to the river meadows until eleven of their number found themselves surrounded, and as a result ten, including David Comey, were killed. The scene of this slaughter was on the west side of the Sudbury River a mile or more east of the present Sudbury Centre. The Haynes garrison house stood for two hundred years after, and it was not until within twenty years that it was demolished. main fighting of that day was the west side of Green Hill, a little northeast of the present village of South Sudbury, and it was here that the monument to Captain Wadsworth and his brave followers was erected. Five of those killed at the Haynes garrison were brought in boats the next day to the foot of the old town bridge and buried. Was David Comey's body one of them?

The Indians were still active and many another town felt the effects of their savage fury, but Canonchet was captured in April and gradually the Indians were killed, until in August Philip himself was captured at Bristol Neck, R. I. A dozen of the leading sachems were hanged or shot, and hundreds sent to the West Indies and sold into slavery. Among the latter was Philip's son, a lad of nine years. Of the ninety towns in the Massachusetts and Plymouth colonies twelve had been utterly destroyed, while forty others had been the scene of fire and slaughter. Hundreds of brave men had perished and an enormous war debt incurred, but severe as this had been for the English, for the Indians it meant utter annihilation, and southern and central New England ceased to be troubled by the red men.

^{*} There has been an endless controversy on the date of this encounter, whether it was April 18 or 21.

MILITARY SERVICE OF THE COMEY-COMEES.

DAVID¹ COMEY, the progenitor of the Comees and Comeys in America, was killed by King Philip's Indians at Sudbury, Mass., in 1676.

THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR.

David Comee, of Lexington and Gardner, Mass., was at the battles of Lexington, Bunker Hill and Bennington (see p. 6).

Jonathan Comee, of Hopkinton, Mass., marched to Lexington, April 19, 1775 (see p. 7).

John⁵ Comee, of Foxboro, Mass., marched to Lexington, April 19, 1775, and saw other service (see p. 7).

Oliver⁵ Comee, of Foxboro, Mass., was in service in New York in 1778 and 1779 (see p. 8).

Spencer⁶ Comee, brother of the two preceding, enlisted in September, 1779, and was killed Feb. 3, 1780, ac. 20 (see p. 8).

Ezra⁵ Comee, of Cambridge (part now Brighton) appears in the list of Revolutionary soldiers in Drake's History of Middlesex County, but not in Massachusetts Archives (see p. 8).

Joseph⁵ Comee, of Lexington, according to Hudson's History of Lexington, was in Capt. John Parker's Company of Minute-men, April 19, 1775, and was wounded in the arm in trying to get out of the meeting-house, where he had been to replenish his powder-horn, but Charles Carleton Coffin, in his "Daughters of the Revolution," says he was wounded as he was standing in the doorway of Robert Munroe's house. His name does not appear in the Massachusetts Archives. This was doubtless Joseph Comee Jr. (1753–1776). (See p. 5.)

Note.—The William Comey that appears in the index to the Massachusetts Revolutionary Rolls was probably the William Coney, born in Stoughton, March 4, 1745.

CIVIL WAR.
